

Tahiti and her Islands

Ia Ora Na

The sapphire blue of Tahiti and Her Islands. The dazzling white of her coral sands. The brilliant greens of the elegant coconut palms. Blue, white and green; these are the predominant colors of Tahiti and Her Islands. All 118 of these gorgeous Polynesian islands spread across five far-flung archipelagos. Each with its own very individual character whose inhabitants blend the twenty first century to the ancestral rhythms of sun and sea.

Tahiti and her Islands offer a myriad of land and sea activities that will reveal to you the dazzling panorama of their magnificent scenery. The Polynesians of these lands of great beauty and natural abundance express their joie de vivre, willingly shared with all, in their dances, in their music, in the power of their brassy church choirs and in their wild and free canoes as they fly through the waves. Their hospitality is legendary. And when you come to leave these islands, you will feel the warmth of emotion as you are adorned with shell necklaces which, unlike the flowers of your arrival, will never fade.

Climate: Warm, pleasant and tropical throughout the year. Wet season from November to April, average temperature up to 27 degrees celsius. Pacific trade winds provide slightly cooler temperatures the rest of the year.

Accommodation: Everything from 5 star luxury accommodation to camping and hostel accommodation, is available on the Tahitian Islands.

Airlines: International: Air Tahiti Nui. Others include Air France, Air New Zealand, Air Calin and Lan Airlines.

Domestic: Air Tahiti

Entry requirements: Valid passport and onward ticket.

Health: No special requirements.

Currency: French Pacific Franc.

Transport: International driving permits. Rental cars, buses, taxis, ferries.

Language: Tahitian and French.

For more information contact: Tahiti Tourisme, PO Box 65, Papeete, Tahiti. Tel, [689] 50 57 00.

www.tahiti-tourisme.pf

