

MANGO MAIL

Bula All,

 Recently it appears Fiji has been the media hot spot destination for film crews, presenters and the making of television programs. Below are the updates on who and what has been gracing the shores of Mango Bay Resort.

The Great Outdoors of Fiji

 Firstly, we had Andrew Daddo presenter of the Australian TV travel program 'The Great Outdoors' come and do a small segment about Mango Bay Resort. So keep an eye out for the Fiji feature 7.30pm Monday night on Channel 7 and you might just see the resort!
<http://www.thegreatoutdoors.com.au>

Guess who has moved in next door....

 For our UK readers that happened to be watching the first episode of ITV's 'Love Island' you might have seen a familiar looking place. Yes, Mango Bay Resort made a brief appearance on your screens with the launch of 'Love Island' taking place on the shores of our beach. The 'celebrity' guys & girls arrived to the resort and were ushered down the beach where a live introduction and picking of partners took place, after pairing up they kayaked over to their 'island' (which basically is a 5 min drive from us). You can get all of the updates, gossip & drama on what is happening next door to us @: <http://loveisland.itv.com>

Tribe Wanted!

5,000 people. 1 unique tribe. 1 Fijian island. A tribe is wanted.

 We also had some very special visitors come and stay with us here at Mango Bay Resort. The founding chief - Ben Keene (Chief Bengazi) and Ulai Baya (Fijian Community Manager) paid us a visit and en-lighted us to their upcoming venture of creating a global tribe that will develop a sustainable eco-community on an island in Fiji . 'Tribewanted' is looking for 5000 people from around the world to become part of a tribe that will not only exist online, but will also settle, 100 at a time, on ' Adventure Island '. On the map, Adventure Island is known as Vorovoro, and is being leased to 'Tribewanted' by the local tribal chief. For more details about this amazing ecological challenge visit - <http://www.tribewanted.com>

 The Fijian word to celebrate this month's Mango Mail August issue is:

'Hai va hewa' : The Fijian word for "Take your time"..

 For further details please refer to our website www.mangobayresortfiji.com or please drop us an email – info@mangobayresortfiji.com

Sega Na Leqa!

The Mango Bay 'ers

This email was sent by Claire McConnell, Mango Bay Resort, Fiji to ms_fijimango@yahoo.com.au

Unsubscribe

Powered by promomail